Dear Parent/Carer

As 2008 draws to a close and Christmas gets ever nearer this really is a time when we put children first. We hope you have found our series of monthly updates useful and informative and we will be back in 2009 with a new enhanced information service, so please encourage your friends who similarly have children to register and receive our emails direct - together we can then work with a wider audience of parents in breaking through the new technological terminology, explore new sites and services that are attracting young people in their droves and make the whole online experience safer for every child.

In the meantime please have a look at this short film and pass it on to your friends and families. It is very much tongue in cheek but with real meaning behind it.

Have a great Christmas and a happy 2009 and lets work together to keep children everywhere that much safer in the online world.
